Near Home.

Although the District troops have been reported to Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood as ready to move to the border, practically every officer and man at Camp Ordway has no hope of going to the border now when a railroad strike on Monday is possible. Every one realizes that until all possible. Every one realizes that until all results in the Continued From Page one.

Every one realizes that until all possibility of strike trouble is over, there is little chance of border service. Sentiment in the District Guard regard-g the border service has changed with the coming of fall, and the taste army service that the men have had. Nearly every man at Camp Ordway, when asked, will say that he is contented to stay at Camp Ordway, where the camp is fully established, and the work is much easier and living more mfortable than it could be at a camp that would have to be established on the Mexican border. Many would still be willing to go to the border if they have to, but they prefer service near

Brig.-Gen. William E. Harvey, in re-porting the troops ready, recommended strongly that the troops be sent to the border. He reported their strength as Third Infantry, 50 officers and 337 men; sanitary troops, 4 officers and 24 men; Battery A, 5 officers and 121 men; Troop Battery A, 5 officers and 121 men; Troop A, 3 officers and 80 men; 1st Separate Batallon detachment, 60 men, and Field Hospital, 5 men.
